Subject: RE: this is what i have got back

Dear Ms. Stambaugh, Thanks for your message. This story presents a very interesting legal argument, where as you note in your message, the original intent of this legislation was to deal with situations of a child borne through infidelity of a married woman. This is obviously something very different.

As state legislator, I have requested our legal staff to research this issue and see if the statute can be amended without creating any unintended consequences. I did receive a preliminary report and because of various court rulings, there is no clearcut legislation that could solve the problem. We will continue to review this issue.

Thanks again for writing.

Sincerely,
